Construction Waste Management – Solutions and Responsibilities

Construction waste represents one of the biggest challenges contributing significantly to pollution and unnecessary land use. In the absence of clear regulation and an efficient collection and recovery circuit, this waste continues to be illegally dumped, affecting the environment and local communities.

Seminar aims to identify viable solutions and to clarify roles of involved actors in the process. What are the necessary measures to be done to have a functional system for construction waste? What are the responsibilities of different actors, authorities and industry?

Through this dialog, we will explore efficient models and good practices to implement a sustainable system.
