Increasing recycling rates – recyclability materials

Recycling objectives are becoming more and more ambitious.

How can recycling goals be achieved under current conditions, when the mix of materials are so diverse in different products (packaging, WEEE, textile)?

What solutions exist for sustainable product design?

This seminar aims to analyze the challenges on recycling chain and to identify solutions to increase the products recyclability.

We will talk about Eco-design and Eco-modulation, as key instruments to improve the recycling performance and to minimize the impact on the environment.
